Medical Conference on Camp Bondsteel

Camp Bondsteel, Kosovo: Multi-national Brigade (East) medical personnel held a conference at Camp Bondsteel's Darby "Red Bull" Theater June 19 to present approximately 80 health care providers from Kosovo with information about up to date medical procedures for respiratory diseases such as asthma and emphysema, as well as information on how to detect diseases common to Kosovo with radiology, said Maj. Kevin Aston, Task Force Falcon surgeon.

The speakers at the conference also discussed Medical Civilian Assistant Program missions and the importance of ethnic-Serb and ethnic-Albanian health officials working together.

"We also want them to know our focus is on Kosovo-Albanians and Kosovo-Serbs working together in the health care environment and anything we can do to help that," said Master Sgt. Troy Reihsen, a medical operations non-commissioned officer who helped coordinate the conference.

Reihsen said it is important to get the two nationalities to work together.
"If doctors here work together it can help the community," he said.
